TEACHER SYMPOSIUM

ASME, Musica Viva In Schools and ASO co-present this Symposium to provide advocacy support for teachers looking to build their school’s music profile, and to help create networks to support their ongoing endeavours.

This symposium is designed for teachers who are having to advocate to their school leadership teams for support for music programs in their schools, arts coordinators grappling with having to teach music for the first time, and for general classroom teachers and music specialists wanting to expand their knowledge.

Hear from two outstanding music education experts, and a Panel Discussion with South Australian teachers who have built thriving music programs in their schools.

Saturday 25 February 2017
8:30am – 1pm
Thebarton Community Centre, cnr South Rd & Ashwin Pde, Torrensville 5031

About our keynote speakers

Anita Collins is an internationally recognised award-winning Australian educator, academic and researcher in music education, who will talk about why music is important for the child – both with brain development and wellbeing.

James Cuskelly will speak about the benefits of teaching musical literacy to everyone from the early years. Internationally recognised for his ability to bring about effective learning in students across all ages and abilities, James teaches at St Aidan’s Anglican Girls School, Brisbane, President of the International Kodaly Society, and is featured in the recent documentary “When We Sing”.

Register for the Musica Viva In Schools enewsletter at musicaviva.com.au/enews

For enquiries please contact

Kylie King
SA State Coordinator,
Musica Viva In Schools
P: 1300 663 608 or (08) 7320 3323
E: kking@yahoo.com

Jeridene Foreman
Learning & Community Engagement Coordinator,
Adelaide Symphony Orchestra
P: (08) 8233 6253
E: ForemanJ@aso.com.au

Sue Harding
Secretary, ASME SA
E: susanharding@optusnet.com.au